

Recent Operations

(By Paul Rardin)

According to all reports it looks to me like Ray Hawk, Canal Point, is about the best bass fisherman in the Lake Region. I guess we'll have to concede him this title because he won first prize in two contests. At Denton's in Pahokee and at Coburn's in Canal Point Ray's black bass entry took first place. A bunch of the fellows have been trying to find out what kind of artificial plug he used to catch the big ones. Others are trying to find out where he caught them. And all the while Ray is sitting back with a big smile on his face looking over all of that new fishing tackle he won in the contests.

Yesterday morning about 30 youngsters climbed into that new Blue Devil bus with their foot ball coach, Frank Holson, and left for Flamingo. Arrow camp near Lakeland where they will spend two weeks in pre-season training. It is right-angled crew that took off under the eye of Frank Holson. They know they're in for some, honest-to-goodness hard work when they get to camp—but they like it. They like their coach. They'll fight their heart out for that it takes to mould a winning foot ball team. In a couple of weeks the boys will be back—well drilled in the technicalities of pigskin toting—ready to take on their first foe on the 1938 schedule.

If half of the acreage now planted to vegetables in the Lake Region is taken out and planted to cane what will happen? Will it reduce the supply of vegetables and force the price up? Talk to some growers and they'll tell you yes. Talk to others and they'll say no. And those in the latter category substantiate their remarks with sound reasoning. They'll tell you that when the acreage in the Lake Region is reduced it will be increased elsewhere—on the east coast or on the west coast of Florida. They'll tell you that reduced acreage will to a great extent reduce the number of buying representatives on the local market, thus decreasing competitive buying. Brokers in northern markets are going to have a plentiful supply of green winter vegetables whether they are grown on the shore of Lake Okechobee or elsewhere.

Interesting editorial comment is available today about the outcome of the primary in South Carolina this week. "Cotton" Ed Smith won, handily over Gov. Johnston, who was endorsed by the White House. Senator Smith's victory—since he was slated by the president to go—will naturally enhance the chances of Senator Walter B. George, Jr. Georgia's other member of the upper house, slated for re-election. The primary will be held in Georgia on September 14. Former Georgians in Florida are watching for the outcome with a great deal of interest. The heat has been turned on Governor's Governor B. D. Rivers in an effort to get him to come out flat-footed for Lawrence Camp—the New Deal candidate. To date the Georgia executive has minded his own knittin' and gone about the state seeking votes for re-election as governor. Whether the heat will bring an open endorsement from Governor Rivers since the South Carolina primary remains a matter of conjecture.

Excellent progress is being made on rebuilding the road between Canal Point and Pahokee. Workmen have added material to the roadbed on the three stretches between the two towns. The work on the surfacing and shoudering remains to make it a completed highway. The road had become a menace to motorists before the work was started. Between Pahokee and Belle Glade, resurfacing will be done in many places. This particular stretch of highway is in bad condition and needs rebuilding from shoulder to shoulder.

Those good trees at the bridge in Canal Point are still there and day by day grow bigger and bigger—thus making the turn onto the bridge more dangerous.

Pahokee Rotarians are having a lot of fun over their attendance contest. Dow Geiger is captain of one team and Olaf Boe is leading the other group of members. The contest was started the first of August and Secretary Johnny Thomas' report yesterday showed that the club had 100 percent attendance in August for the first time in a year. So, results prove that the contest has stimulated interest in attendance. However, the losing side over a past few months has been the Rotarians who have not even been at a special dinner to which Rotarymen will be invited.

Hon. Russell C. Morrow, state representative of Palm Beach county, had the speaker last week at the Belle Glade Rotary club. Mr. Morrow used "government" as his topic and in no uncertain terms told Rotarians what he thought about county, state, municipal and national government. His address was thoroughly enjoyed by Belle Glade Rotarians and their visitors.

The Bible school which has been under way in Canal Point for the past two weeks will come to a close tonight with a special program. Those in charge of the school say that it has been even more successful than schools of the past. During the past two weeks attendance has reached near the 150 mark. Sessions were held in the Canal Point Methodist church and in the Women's club building used by the Missionary Baptist congregation.

South Bay Will Not Incorporate Now

Citizens of South Bay in meeting Tuesday night declared a failure was the plan to incorporate the town. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Smith, where a majority of voters were not present at a meeting called for that purpose. Plans had been made to sound out opinion at the meeting and if found favorable incorporation proceedings would have been started. Only 50 voters were present at Tuesday night's meeting and those in charge of the movement were disappointed. The incorporation attempt was a failure. A plan was suggested a few years ago but failed because then it was found that the necessary two-thirds majority was unfavorable to incorporation.

Yesterday morning the coach has thirty of his football boys rounded up and ready to leave for camp shortly before noon. LUCKY STAFF
Everglades News needs a hospital. Some place never could have one except for the generosity of individuals. The town of St. Augustine on the lower east coast is to have a modern hospital costing upwards of $100,000, says the St. Augustine News. This is a gift from Mrs. William S. Barstow, of New York, winter residents of Jupiter Island. The furniture and equipment are being given by Mrs. Verne S. Reed, of Denver, and her son, Joseph Verne Reed, also winter residents of Jupiter Island. The generous donors of the hospital have spent several weeks visiting hospitals, in and about New York to see how modern institutions are arranged and equipped. They are desirous of having the St. Augustine institution modern in every respect, and are having the stone returned to make it so. Some of the most recent innovations in hospital equipment which are such as synthetic rubber wheels which continue to run for one hour after the current has been interrupted, and an emergency electric circuit, will furnish light in the most important rooms in the hospital automatically. The work of the current is interrupted.—ST. Augustine Record.

THE HOME TOWN PAPER
The old home town paper is the last link that binds you to the home of childhood. And when you go to the thing, you find it interests you the most is the obituary column. There you find the names with which you are familiar. There you only do you find them. It always makes us feel sad when our home town paper comes to us each week. We always begin to stare into vacancy a bit before we tear off the wrapper. We wonder who has left the key touch of death in the medallion upon which the clouds have fallen during the past seven days. In a moment we jerk the paper open, read the obituary column, military obituary and while holding full sway in our thoughts.

There are, often, of course, too things to read in the home town paper, as in the case of others, which has bright and clever comments on the national and international scene with the advancing years, it's the obituary column that claims first interest.—Tampa Tribune.

LEGISLATIVE BATTLE LINES
Praising, Speaker designate Pierce Wood as a "big game" hunter and recalling that he came to the rescue of a Dade county gas tax "local bill" in the last legislature, Bill Herring, executive officer of the Miami Herald and Ken Ballinger's successor in riding herd on the flora and fauna of state politics, assures his big county readers that Dade county "will get the best deal possible with Wood as speaker."

We think so, too, and we have an idea that the partnership which Mr. Hollman touched upon is destined to spotlight one of the "big issues" of the next legislature. There's more to it than the fact that Mr. Wood is so alluring, as he is, sure enough, but there was another and probably more compelling reason for his giving Dade county a lift on that gas tax bill. It was of the same type that a lot of small counties, Mr. Wood's Liberty among them, were pushing through the legislature and they were willing to let Dade county have a finger in the pie because the three or four counties county might be needed if any body rose up to make an issue of it.

Nobody in the legislature did but over in the confederacy of 'tice the vigilant Jim Lee refused to pay off on bills which he considered were just as illegal as the one Frank Cleveland took to court here the other day. So far the courts have upheld him, though by the close call of a split supreme court decision which left the controller with a rather insecure victory. A new justice goes to the court the first of the year and that may change the situation but if it doesn't you can bet pretty good money in the legislature will try their damnest to do so.

The ongoing fight promises to create an entirely new legislative alignment to take the place of the division between small counties and big counties on which the present distribution law was passed in the memorable 100-day session of 1931. That law provided that counties should be repaid out of three cents of the gas tax for roads they had built for the state and that when bonds were issued for that purpose had been paid off the share a given county had been receiving should go to the road department for the construction of new state roads in that county. Since 1931, a number of counties have been paid off but instead of letting the money go to the road department they have used local bonds to keep it in the county for county purposes frequently far removed from road building.

Although Miami—with the Herd leading in the outcry—has bitterly complained of this practice the Dade county bill which Mr. Wood helped to pass was primarily that of it. And as about half the counties in the state have similar bills that suggests what the case will be. It will no longer be a fight between the large counties and the small counties but between the paid-off and the bonded counties. And Mr. Wood will be on Dade county's side because Liberty county is in the same boat, at least in the eyes in the West Florida duPont empire.—FT. MYERS NEWS-TRIP.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

Daytona Beach: Democratic congressional nominee from the Fourth Congressional district, Paul Cannon, speaking before a large group of Townsend supporters, said that he was proud to be Florida's Junior Senator, Claude Pepper. "The greatest Democrat of his time," suggested Cannon, "will make an excellent running mate for whoever might be chosen by the Democratic party as presidential candidate in 1940."

Pepper enthusiasts in Miami, Palm Beach and other Florida cities have tried to start "Pepper for President" bonfires, but this time Senator Cannon, modestly and rightly answered "this effort with the statement that he held no such ambition at this time and felt that every effort should be given to the task at hand, that the people of Florida might have the best if they ever to give them as their senator."

Pepper is young, brilliant, able and his rise to prominence and success has been a very short one. It is only natural that his friends should seek to push him forward to greater honors in his future prospects. Brilliant and able though he may be Claude is nevertheless still a "rookie."

From the same point of view, he has advanced to the big league with very little experience in the minor leagues as represented by the state legislature.

So far the Junior Senator has shown himself extremely level headed, honors have been heaped upon him in great measure, in so short a time. Praise has been lavish. He has become more or less a national figure, but cannot burn themselves out and "rookie" who advance too fast often "crack up." We don't want any thing like that to happen to Claude.

I recall during the senatorial campaign, a group of us were discussing Claude in a Miami hotel room. F. M. Thomas of Miami, staunch Pepper supporter, on that occasion mentioned Pepper as a presidential possibility. The group who have done so before that and many have since.

Now no one would be happier than I see Claude Pepper elected to the presidency or the present court bench as suggested recently by Charles Mitchell, for his close association with the man I have come to admire and respect him for his character, sincerity and ability. But Claude has made a strong case where he is. Furthermore he needs the experience that he can get nowhere else to better fit him for the greater things that are to come. He is a good man to push out of the picture and you know too much about him to cause even the best of boilers to "blow up."

If I were coaching on Claude Pepper's team right now I think I'd take my star "rookie" back into the dressing room and talk to him something like this:

Claude, you're a pretty good player and the sports writers who are playing you up for a hero will be just as quick to crack down on you or jerk you off the field if you happen to make a few "boobies." It's happened to a lot of good men son, particularly those who have tried to go too far too fast.

Sit steady in the boat, watch your batting average and take care of yourself, don't try to hog all the spotlight and let some of the other fellows take some of the heat. You're on a good team and your best effort is needed to win the pennant, you'll be playing in a World Series soon enough if you keep on the job. You'll be playing in the "Play Ball" don't let the oohs and cheerings go to your head. You've got plenty of time with us watch your step and play the game hard and steady you'll go places. That's all son.

Florida is directly benefiting from the war in China through an advance in the market price of sugar. Production has dropped sharply in China and prices are soaring.

Nearly 30,000 Get Old Age Pensions In State of Florida

674 in Palm Beach County Are On The Rolls

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 1.—A year's progress in the extension of Old Age Assistance to needy Floridians 65 years of age or more is revealed in the annual report of the State Welfare board, now in the hands of the printers and soon to be released for distribution.

The report shows that the total number of persons receiving OAA increased from 10,838 as of July 1, 1932 to 28,469 on June 30, 1933. The aggregate amount disbursed from $125,240.74 to $428,795 and the average grant from $11.56 to $15.02.

In Palm Beach County the increases were: Number enrolled from 579 to 674; amount disbursed from $6,822.99 to $11,567.00; average grant, from $11.78 to $17.16.

The substantial sum sent back to the county has considerably relieved its categorical relief obligations and has put it in position to liberalize its grants for direct relief, for which no provision is made by either the state or federal governments. It was pointed out today by C. C. Coddington, state welfare commissioner.

In addition to Old Age Assistance, the State Welfare board also administers Aid to the Blind, a program that is "now well advanced, and Aid to Dependent Children, a program that is in its infancy on account of an earlier lack of funds.

Payment of Old Age Assistance and Aid to the Blind has been

C A F E EMPLOYEES MUST FOLLOW LAW

TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 1.—(ENS)—W. M. Taylor, state hotel commissioner, announced the inauguration of a drive over the state toward the enactment of municipal health ordinances for restaurant employees.

"These ordinances will be operated similarly to the regulation of the state hotel commission and in conjunction with the state hotel law," Taylor said.

"The city of Tallahassee recently passed the first of these ordinances, placing upon the shoulders of restaurant proprietors the responsibility of having all employees certified as to their health, and it is the purpose of the hotel commission to have similar ordinances adopted in as many Florida cities as possible."

The Tallahassee ordinance, Commissioner Taylor explained, holds proprietors in violation of municipal law if all employees have not had health examinations by qualified physicians, and are in possession of health certificates.

"This act places no greater burden on the employer, but it does assure enforcement of state and city laws, and the whole thing works together to assure greater protection for the public in this respect," Commissioner Taylor explained.

He added that requests will be made of cities throughout the state that they adopt similar ordinances at the earliest possible date.

NORTHLAND'S LOYALTY CODE MOVES FILM

A dramatic story of two men whose lifelong friendship is broken by an Arctic feud but who are finally reunited through the heroic sacrifice of one of them. Told in "Spawns of the North," Paramount's epic tale of romance, war and heroism in frontier Alaska, which comes to the Everglades theatre on Sunday and Monday.

George Raft, playing a role similar to the one which won him laurels in "Souls at Sea," is the ner-dowell but captivating adventurer of the Northland, who flouts every law of Alaska but gives up everything for his life-long friend and the girl he loves. Henry Fonda, fresh from his triumphs in "Jezebel" and "Blockade," plays Raft's devoted friend and reluctant enemy, and Dorothy Lamour, in her biggest dramatic role to date, will be seen as the typical gallant woman of the North country.

The story of "Spawns of the North" is based on the original novel by Barrett Woughborough, Alaska's best-known native writer. It tells what happens when war hits the fishing-country of the Archipelago, with fishermen pitted in a life-and-death struggle with bold sea-mon-pirates, and shows the fate of two lifelong friends who find themselves arrayed against each other.

Romance, in the persons of Miss Lamour and Hollywood's newest star discovery, Louise Platt, does as much as the salient war to drive a wedge between Raft and Fonda. When Raft realizes that his war has brought nothing but unhappiness and danger to the three people he loves best, he
